

FOR PRESIDENT,
GENERAL WINFIELD SCOTT, OF NEW JERSEY.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT,
WILLIAM A. GRAHAM,
OF NORTH CAROLINA.

Readers, that the Whig party of Washington, conscious that the ground they tread is worthy of men who hold the Union of the States as the source and fountain of the Whig party, and in the truest patriotism of its glorious leaders, is the best safeguard of the Union from domestic dissensions, and is the only way to secure the peace and stability of the Union, and in the truest patriotism of its glorious leaders, is the best safeguard of the Union from domestic dissensions, and is the only way to secure the peace and stability of the Union.

Y. E. PALMER, the American Newspaper Agent, is the authorized agent for this paper in the cities of Boston, New York, Philadelphia, and is duly empowered to take advertisements and subscriptions at the rates as required by us. Gen. Scott's Allowance as Cherokee Commissioner.

Much has been said on this subject by the enemies of General Scott. A few words from the record will soon, however, dissipate the influence of their misrepresentations.

The allowance of a per diem to Gen. Scott as commissioner for the removal of the Cherokees was made the subject of inquiry in the House of Representatives in 1842. The answer to the call for information was made. That answer, with the documents, as printed, is now before us, and the result is strictly this: On the 11th of April, 1842, President Van Buren, under his own signature, constituted him a "commissioner" to regulate the emigration, or vary the propositions of the treaty by which the emigration was stipulated. The commission runs thus: "For these purposes, and to meet the contingency referred to, you are hereby appointed a commissioner, and authorized to conclude an arrangement of the matter herein described with the said Indians, subject to the approbation or rejection of the Senate." Having executed his duty, and being in Ohio on other duty, in December, 1842, Gen. Scott wrote to the Secretary of War asking that the amount of the usual allowance to a commissioner, of eight dollars per diem, should be placed to his credit, as he would have occasion for the money; and aware, both from his own experience, and the usage in respect to others, that the uniform practice was to make such compensation, he sent no voucher, but a simple statement of the time he was employed as commissioner.

Mr. Poinsett, the Secretary of War, referred the account to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, who, under the date of 12th of December, 1842, reports that it is inadmissible—1st, because there is no appointment on record of Gen. Scott as commissioner; and second, because, as he appeared to be only acting in his capacity as a military officer, the law of March 3d, 1835, forbade any extra allowance. In this view Mr. Attorney General Grundy concurred, and for the reason stated by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

These reasons were at once set aside by the production of the original commission, signed by Mr. Van Buren, but of which it seemed no record had been kept in the proper department. But the pride of consistency would not permit the Attorney General Grundy to change his opinion, and he still insisted that the law of March, 1835, forbade any allowance. So Mr. Poinsett, in February, 1843, as asked Mr. Senator Wright to insert an item in the estimates to cover the sum due Gen. Scott—saying, in his letter to Mr. Wright: "Gen. Scott is rightly entitled to this compensation for his valuable and important services, and I beg leave earnestly to request that you will your endeavor to have inserted in the appropriation bill an item to that effect."

Mr. Wright demurred, because of the law of 1835, unless there were a contract previously made. Mr. Poinsett replies on the 1st of March, that there is no such contract; that by the usage of the War office, prior to 1835, he would as commissioner have been entitled to the per diem, but, that law being construed to extend to the case, the department was compelled to ask the allowance from Congress.

The session closing on the 4th of March, nothing was done in the matter. The Supreme Court of the United States, in the case of Mines vs. the United States, 15 Peters, p. 424, decided that the restriction in the act of March, 1835, applied only to the appropriations made at that session of Congress. Even Mr. Grundy's last objections could no longer be deemed tenable: and, accordingly, Gen. Scott prepared to present his claim anew; but, owing to having mislaid the original commission from Mr. Van Buren, it was not done till after Mr. Bell had resigned his office as Secretary of War. As soon as it was presented, with the original commission, and the transcript of the decision of the Supreme Court, by Judge Story, in January, 1841, all difficulty was cleared away, and the claim was allowed, and the money paid in conformity with the standing usage of the War Department.

The Workingmen—Increased Compensation.

The workmen employed on the Capitol and other public buildings held a meeting last night at the City Hall, for the purpose of petitioning the President, in whom, it is understood, is vested the authority, to grant them the same per centage on their wages as has been allowed by Congress to the clerks and other officers of the government. The meeting, though not as numerous as the friends of the workmen could have wished, was yet largely and respectfully attended. Mr. C. W. Beckingham presided, and Mr. William P. Lowman acted as secretary. A committee of eight, representing the various branches of mechanics and laborers, was appointed to draught a memorial and present it to the President. Mr. P. McKenney made a very animated, eloquent, and well-received address on the occasion; and two other gentlemen, whose names we could not learn, made some appropriate remarks.

We sincerely wish this meritorious class of our citizens the highest success in their present endeavor to procure an increase of wages.

When we try to gather in our little dues, they say our collectors den hard. This after starting out upon the cash plan! "Keep no accounts with anybody," said a successful editor in another city, when we were about to commence the Telegraph. He had not tried Washington.

Candidates for the Presidency of the United States in 1852.

WINFIELD SCOTT, opposed by the wire-workers, nominated by the people, and his nomination formally ratified by the Whig Convention.

JOHN P. HALE, a member of the Democratic party, Free soil in principle, nominated by the Free soil Convention.

FRANKLIN PIERCE, nominated by several parties in convention, who, unable to agree in principles, and therefore unable to select a man of principle, took one against whom they thought no such objection could be urged.

DANIEL WEBSTER, who, with and by his friends, went into the Whig Convention, where he was fairly defeated, but is now, by a few professed Whigs, without hopes of success, endeavoring to thwart the progress of the Whig party and its true nominee.

G. M. TROUP, of Georgia, nominated by a convention of Democrats in Alabama who do not like General Pierce or his allies.

GODDALL, who is named by the extreme Liberty men and the Women's Rights Convention.

The Detroit Tribune says that at a Scott club, formed last week, near Detroit, twenty-three Democrats, who had up to that time gone for the Democratic ticket, came boldly forward and registered their names among its list of members, and declared their unalterable determination to vote for the hero of Lundy's Lane, and to do all in their power to promote his election. And further, that three of the most prominent Democrats in the State (Gen. Williams, Col. O'Callahan, and Major Kearney) are officers of the Detroit Scott Club.

Settings.

Gentlemen ought not to "make game" of the elections; but they will do it. Yesterday, the general result was talked of at the National, and five hundred a side put up by two gentlemen of the company. Another gentleman spoke of the "unreasonable confidence of the Whigs," and said some of them even claimed Virginia. A Whig said he thought they stood a chance for it. "I'll bet a hundred to twenty-five on it," said a Democrat. "I'll take that bet," said a Whig. The waltzes were opened; but just then the Democrat said he believed he would "back out," and he did so!

General Pillow made a ditch in Mexico, and General Pillow fell into a ditch in Mexico. General Pillow went up to New Hampshire, a few weeks before the Democratic nomination, to prepare General Pierce for the surprise that was before him! Some think Pillow has had a hand in making a ditch for his friend. A mischievous dither is General Pillow!

Hon. Mr. Strother, of Virginia.

This Representative in Congress from the Fairfax district of Virginia has been reported by the Democratic press as refusing to support General Scott; but, in a letter to the Warrenton (Va.) Whig, he says that he "approves without reservation all the principles and views of policy expressed in the resolutions of the Baltimore Whig Convention, and shall advocate and vote for the election of the candidates nominated by that Convention."

Posting the Books.

Grocery remarks that Missouri, Iowa, and Maine are the only States which have yet elected members to the next Congress. In the year of Gen. Taylor's election, they chose three Whigs (D. F. Miller, of Iowa) was cheated out of his seat by the stealing of the Kaneville poll-book, so that the returns stood: Whigs two; opposition twelve. Now those same States have chosen six Whigs and seven opposition. We call this a fair beginning. Keep it up!

The Union of this morning says that if Gen. Scott was offered a million of dollars and the Presidency of Mexico, he was bound to report the disgraceful proposal to the United States government. If he had, Mr. Polk would probably have sent out a General-in-chief who would have accepted the offer. Gen. Jackson gave the republic of Texas a Hibernator and a president in the person of "our Sam," and thus secured the annexation of that nation. The same means might have been applied to Mexico. Indeed, our respected contemporary of the Union, Gen. Armstrong, would have been a suitable man for the purpose. Had the million been offered to him, would he be engaged in the petty business of printing public records at the small pay of a hundred thousand a year, or so? Certainly not!

A Large Fee Claimed.

The New Orleans Delta says that Christian Roselius, esq., has filed in the second district court a petition in behalf of Daniel Webster, a resident of Massachusetts, and Greer B. Duncan, of New Orleans, to recover of the corporation of New Orleans fifty thousand dollars for their services in the Gaines case.

The Whigs of Hamilton gave the Hon. L. D. Campbell a magnificent reception on his arrival home. Cannons, music, a procession, &c., were the order of the day. In the evening he addressed over a thousand at the court-house. He is destined to be elected.

ADAMS & CO.'S WESTERN EXPRESS.—We call the attention of those interested to the advertisement of Messrs. Adams & Co., setting forth their facilities for sending goods to the West. We have reason to know that their line has recently undergone extensive improvements, and, adding as they do to all the principal points West, they present advantages not hitherto enjoyed.

The Voice of Michigan, in Commendation of General Scott.

The following resolution, introduced by the Hon. J. McDouell, passed the Senate of Michigan. It is a just and well deserved compliment. (See Niles Register, March 24, 1848.)

Resolved by the Senate of Michigan, That the vigilant and energetic conduct of Major General Scott, of the United States Army, in sustaining the neutrality of the United States, and preserving the peace of the Northern and Northwestern frontier, is deserving of the highest appreciation; and that, however, the people of Michigan may sympathize with those struggling for the advancement of human liberty, yet the supremacy of the laws of the Union, and the preservation of the law of treaties, is by them esteemed a privilege and duty.

Mr. Turner's Second Grand Soiree!

It will be seen by the card in another column that this event will take place on Monday next. Mr. T.'s highly successful attempt last week has aroused a public furor in his favor. We are truly gratified to perceive it, for he is a most admirable vocalist.

Uncle Tom's Cabin is being played at the Lowell Museum with great success.

Leahy, who killed Manly, in Wisconsin lately, was a deeply injured man, and did precisely what any other man would have done in a similar situation. Manly acted criminally with Leahy's wife.—Epoch.

There are some men who would not have acted so. Such a wrong call for all the fortitude a man can summon to his aid; but good men triumph by means of it, and the world justifies and respects them: while he who murders his injurer does so out of respect to the erroneous opinions of a portion of his fellow men, and is thus sure to murder his own happiness also. Newspapers have a wide influence on the conduct of men, and hence editors should be careful how they propagate notions so disastrous in their practical application. To possess a wife whose honor is not her husband's best safeguard is a great misfortune; but to "put her away," however it may try the affections, is the only proper and lawful remedy. If the laws of the land are not adequate to punish the wrong-doer, it is unfortunate; but the fact does not warrant the inflicting of private revenge.

Again and again must we proclaim it, we can take no notice of anonymous communications. We do not even read them.

THE KANAWHA DEMOCRATS.—We take the following note from the Kanawha (Va.) Republican of the 8th instant:

JARRETT'S FORD, Kanawha, Va., August 31, 1852.

Mr. Newton: In looking over the printed circular of the Democratic party, I see my name on the Democratic committee. As I intend to go for the hero of Lundy's Lane, and take as many with me as I can, you will please give notice through your paper that they had better drop me, as I dropped Pierce. Yours respectfully,

ISAAC N. TODD

This makes the fifth that we have seen of the Democratic Vigilance Committee of that district who prefer "to go for the hero of Lundy's Lane." If the active Democrats, who have been relied on for their zeal as members of the Vigilance Committee, thus fall off, what may we not expect of lukewarm individuals of that party?

THREE CENT PIERCE.—The public are reminded that this useful coin may be had in sums of $30 and upwards, at par, of Messrs. Adams & Co.'s Express.

By an arrangement with the mint, this firm are prepared to deliver any amount of this coin at par, at any point where they do business.

New Publications.

Mr. Joe Shillingham has presented to us Godey's Lady's Book, for October, a superb double number, splendidly embellished: Graham's American Monthly, for October, "rich in every grace and beauty;" and A Portrait of General Pierce, handsomely engraved, full length, by Fillebrown.

Shillingham expects a further supply this evening of Hawthorne's Life of Pierce—"a great romance, equal to the author's best!"

Young Catholics' Friend Society.

We learn with much pleasure of the organization of this truly benevolent and charitable institution, which is formed upon the model of other and similar associations in Boston, Baltimore, and other cities of this country. Its objects are to reclaim our poor children, who from poverty, the death or neglect of parents, or other causes, are deprived of a Christian education, to call them off from habits of idleness and crime, provide them with clothes, books, medical attendance, and the advantages of Christian education. This movement, if persevered in, will prove one of the most useful and efficient means of arresting the onward march of crime in this metropolis, and will no doubt prove the instrument of rescuing many an unfortunate youth from a life of iniquity and a felon's death.

The Young Catholics' Friend Society, of the City of Washington, was permanently organized on last Sunday evening, by the adoption of a constitution which breathes the true spirit of Christian charity, and by the election of the following gentlemen as officers: For President, Richard H. Clarke; for Vice President, Nicholas Callan; Recording Secretary, John Carroll Brent; Treasurer, James S. Harvey; Book-keeper, John E. Ennis; Procurator, John J. Joyce; Professors, Becho and Henry; Lieutenants Hardcastle and Jenkins, (secretaries).

THEY COME.—The Covington (Ky.) Journal of the 21st says: "During the evening, John E. Fisk introduced to the Club six gentlemen of the Democratic party, who declared their intention to vote for Gen. Scott."

A young man in Cincinnati had a snug little fortune left him some three years since, and, as soon as he came into possession of it, began to live "like a gentleman." He was the idol of the ladies, and the prince of good fellows among his male companions. He rode, drank, played cards, and the gallant; was caressed, flattered, and caajoled. Last spring his purse collapsed, and he was "out" on every hand—all his acquaintances suddenly discovering him to be a mean fellow. What an old, every-day lesson is this; and yet how many hundreds more will learn it by sad experience! Such is the world!

"Well, you told us your place was a good place for hunting; now, we've tramped it for three hours, and found no game."

"Just so—well, I calculated, as a general thing, the less game there is, the more hunting you have."

"I wonder what makes my eyes so weak?" said a fop to a gentleman. "Why they are in a weak place," replied the latter.

The man who was hurt by a burst of applause, is recovering; and the individual who was injured by the accidental discharge of his duty, is still very low.

City Items.

We understand that a very remarkable case has been presented to the Medical Society of this city—a child aged four years, four feet in height, and weighing seventy-five pounds. His physical strength and masculine development are nearly equal to those of mature manhood, while his mind and temper, though sound and natural, are infantile. We may expect some account of this prodigy from the faculty in a few days.

An inquest is now in progress here which will no doubt result in astonishing the whole community, and fully proving the awful depravity of the human heart. We forbear giving the information we have obtained until the jury has rendered its verdict, as we have no desire to arouse indignation before every particle of evidence, favorable and unfavorable, has been produced. Abortion, &c., are suspected.

Two inquests were held yesterday, in the eastern part of our city—one over the body of a colored man who bled to death from the rupture of a blood-vessel; the other over the body of a colored woman who was found drowned in the canal near the bridge on Virginia avenue. The verdicts of the juries accorded with these facts.

Kunkel's Nightingales appear again this evening at Odd-Fellows' Hall, on which occasion Master Adams sings, in white face, that gem of Mrs. Frances S. Osgood, entitled "I have something sweet to tell you." The troupe, of course, appear, and go through their variety of entertainments. On to-morrow afternoon, a performance will take place at 3 o'clock, for the accommodation of families and children unable to attend at night. Children will be admitted on that occasion for ten cents each, and five adults for one dollar. To-morrow evening is positively the last appearance of the company in Washington.

Young Man's Counsellor.

SEVENTH EDITION.

No young man can read this work without profit. Its counsels are not only safe, but have an elevation and freshness which adapt them to the present times. It is not a book of mere declamation; the reader will find it profound as well as lively. We would show an intimate knowledge of even the most secret springs of human action. Young Lady's Counsellor.

SIXTH EDITION.

THE YOUNG LADY'S COUNSELLOR; or, Outlines and Illustrations of the Sphere, Duties, and Dangers of Young Women, as they relate to their happiness in this life, and to Glory in the life which is to come. By Rev. Daniel Wise, A.M.

This work has been received with very great favor wherever it is known. "The editor of the Northern Christian Advocate says: 'We had heard good things of this work, and on reading it, most cheerfully and to our testimony to its merits. It is not only a valuable addition to the literature of the young, but most gently and assiduously cultivates ground already known. It is a counsel, entwined with illustrations, as every lady in every lady's mind. The style is not ornate—it is better—flowing like the Harp, transparent brook over its pebbles, diffusing health and pleasure wherever it flows. It is a work in every sense of the word, originality; it is sufficiently removed from that class of June and forenoon compilations secured from preceding authors, and glued together by the mere book-maker. For the objects had in view, it is one of the best works we have ever seen.'
